Enterprise Risk Management

15 -17 December 2025

Singapore

This interactive workshop course is apt for participants already engaged in or in the process of exploring the institution of Enterprise Risk Management (ERM) in their organization. It helps them to keep abreast of developments in this integrated approach to risk management for the business enterprise in the face of business complexities, changing technologies and growing regulatory, governance and compliance issues. It engages the participants in examining the challenges and issues of risk management and drives forth the case that managing risks holistically and with an enterprise-wide perspective

Overview

While there is no universal definition of what ERM is, a commonly goggled source states its inclusion of "methods and processes used by organizations to manage risks and seize opportunities related to the achievement of their objectives" (Wikipedia)

Though ERM has been around since the later part of the last century, risk management continues to be practiced very much on a silo basis. The consequences have been clear - as seen by the various enterprise catastrophes which dotted the financial and nonfinancial spheres.

Upon completion of course, participants will be able to:

- appreciate that risks faced by an enterprise come in various forms spanning financial, operational, strategic, reputation and regulatory spaces and the importance of successfully identifying, assessing, anticipating and mitigating its critical risks and uncertainties
- implement successful strategies for enhancing the ERM function within the organization by benchmarking with prevailing market practices
- explore the evolution of the ERM discipline over the last two decades and how its relevance has heightened given changing business and regulatory/governance dynamics
- examine and gain insights from other organizations' experiences in their ERM processes so to broaden knowledge and competently address questions of how to implement an effective enterprise- wide risk oversight in one's own organization
- value-create for the enterprise with an integrated enterprise-wide approach to strategic business planning and risk oversight processes
