STRATEGY MASTERCLASS

14 - 16 April 2026
Singapore

This intensive workshop empowers professionals to think strategically, analyze their business environment, and make informed decisions that drive long-term value. Participants will apply frameworks such as SWOT, PESTLE, Porter's Five Forces, VRIO, and more in a highly practical setting culminating in a team-based strategy simulation.

Overview

Designed for professionals who influence or shape strategic direction, this course builds a shared understanding of strategy, strengthens analytical thinking, and bridges the gap between planning and execution. The course includes real-world case examples, tools, and a final strategy lab for experiential learning.

Upon completion, participants will:

- Gain practical tools to assess industry forces, market opportunities, and internal strengths
- Learn to set strategic goals, build growth plans, and respond to uncertainty
- Apply frameworks like SWOT, PESTLE, VRIO, Ansoff, and OKRs to real-life scenarios

Who should attend

- Business unit heads, analysts, and mid-level leaders involved in strategic planning
- Professionals transitioning into strategy roles or participating in decision-making teams
- Teams seeking a shared language and process for structured strategic thinking

Methodology

The program blends interactive lectures, small-group analysis, hands-on exercises, and a full-day capstone simulation. Participants work in teams to develop and pitch a real-time strategy for a fictional company using the full range of taught frameworks.

Trainer

Facilitated by a strategy consultant and former corporate planner with over 20 years of experience in business design and strategic transformation. The trainer brings practical insights from consulting, in-house leadership roles, and teaching executive programs across Asia.
